THE REAL TEST

Of Herpidea Is in Giving It a Thorough Trial.

There is only one test by which to judge of the efficiency of any article and that is by its ability to do that which it is intended to do. Many hair vigorizers may look nice and smell nice, but the point is—do they eradicate dandruff and stop falling hair? No, they do not, but Herpidea does, because it goes to the root of the evil and kills the germ that attacks the papilla from whence the hair gets its life.

Letters from prominent people everywhere are daily proving that Herpidea stands the "test of use."

It is a delightful dressing, clear, pure and free from oil or grease.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpidea Co., Detroit, Mich.

Forced to Leave Boni.

In spite of reports that the Countess de Castellane is in London, she cannot be located at any of the well-known hostesseries. A French woman, with special means of knowing the exact condition of affairs in the household of the Countess, and who is stepping in London, Sunday laughingly said of the separation of the French noble and his wife, who was Anna Gould:

"They are always separating and then making up again. You see, Count Boni knows pretty well that the Gould millions are quite handy to have about the house, and in spite of his airs and graces, he is a very practical individual. 'The Count was always the 'black sheep' of the Castellane family, as was his father before him. He has never made a secret of his excesses, which are numerous. His extravagances are not limited to his platonic home, which he and his wife created. Just a few months ago he furnished, for instance, a superb apartment where, when he so desires, he lives the life of a gay bachelor. This establishment is not devoted to any special divinity, but in it he gathers collectively about him a select variety of women who happen to charm him."

"The gilded youths of Paris tell weird stories of the orgies that occur in this exquisite little cage. Madame Anna also knows of these little eccentricities, but has never bothered much about them, for such follies are accepted much as a necessity among the most polite and rich Parisian households. But she has objected recently with unusual fervor to the attention of Count Boni to Duchesse d'Uzes Marie Therese, the beautiful daughter-in-law of the famous old Duchesse, familiarly known as Madame Satan."

"Countess Anna could occasionally overlook Boni's outrageous lapses in other quarters, but in this last affair he has insulted her too much for a grand dame of the Faubourg St. Germain. This, I dare say, is the cause of this last quarrel, although I don't believe it as serious as people say."

"Countess Anna, you know, has only been accepted or tolerated in Paris because she is Boni's wife and the mother of his two sons. Everybody sympathizes deeply with her, but she has no friends among her husband's people, and they shrug their shoulders and say that if a bourgeoisie paid her money for her great name she cannot expect much more."

"It is a strange thing that Count Boni, with his painted face, padded chest, laced waist and high heels, should have two of the manliest fellows in all the French aristocracy as brothers. They look with considerable horror upon the little man-monster, but still he is accepted at all polite houses. His conversation is anything but edifying, and I dare not mention the subjects he chooses for gossip at dinner tables. No honorable French girl is ever allowed to converse alone with Boni, and it is only the seasoned mondaine who will indulge in confidences with him. He is a curious specimen of the twentieth century decadence. He glories in his dissipated life and extravagances into which it leads him."

"I think the Countess Anna honestly detests him, but she has her children to consider. Boni on his part loves her money too well to break with her. I don't think, therefore, that a permanent separation will result. They are too dependent upon each other, and the Duchess d'Uzes cannot afford an open scandal. Were the Countess Anna without money she would undoubtedly have her life made miserable forever by every member of the Castellane family."

"Had the Countess come over to London she would undoubtedly have put up at Claridge's. She always runs away from Paris when these squabbles are on, and I don't place much importance in the fact that she is reported to have left the city."

Countess Boni de Castellane entered a plea for divorce in Paris yesterday. Representatives of the countess and the count appeared before Judge Henry Ditté, of the Court of First Instance, who, in conformity with the French law, endeavored to arrange a reconciliation before allowing a definite suit to proceed. It is said on unquestionable authority that Judge Ditté's effort was not successful, the countess absolutely declining to resume her relations with her husband, and that after repeated but vain attempts by Count de Castellane's advisers to arrange a settlement the representatives of the count and countess left the court and that the suit will proceed.

The End of The World

of troubles that robbed E. H. Wolfe, of Bear Grove, La., of all usefulness, came when he began taking Electric Bitters. He writes: "Two years ago kidney trouble caused me great suffering, which I would never have survived had I not taken Electric Bitters. They also cured me of General Debility." Sure cure for all Stomach, Liver and Kidney Complaints, Blood diseases, Headache, Dizziness and Weakness or bodily decline. Price 50c. Guaranteed by E. S. Leadbeater & Sons' drug store.

No false pretense has ever been the cause of trouble for cases it will not cure. Being entirely harmless, it is not responsible for the catarrh and pus, for minds shattered by cocaine. The great positive virtue of Ely's Cream Balm is that it specifically cures all types of nasal catarrh and hay fever. Back of this statement is the testimony of thousands and a reputation of many years' success. All druggists, 50c, or mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren street, New York.

Death from Hydrophobia.

Mrs. Ella J. Thornton, aged 35 years, died at Charleston, W. Va., yesterday from a well-developed case of rabies.

About six weeks ago Mrs. Thornton went out to feed a dog belonging to her family, and the animal attacked her little child, and was prevented from biting it by reason of the child's heavy clothing. Mrs. Thornton interfered to save the child, and was herself bitten. The dog then ran into the street and snapped the leg of a farmer who was passing, but he, too, was protected by heavy clothing. This convinced the people in the neighborhood that the animal was mad, and a policeman was called, who shot and killed the dog. Medical attention was given Mrs. Thornton, and it was thought she was all right until a week ago, when she became very ill. She could not bear the sight of water, and exhibited all the symptoms of rabies. She frothed at the mouth and growled and barked like a dog. All help proved unavailing, and yesterday she died in great agony.

Nature needs only a Little Early Riser now and then to keep the bowels clean, the liver active, and the system free from bile, headaches, constipation. Early Riser Pills never gripe.

Startling But True.

People the world over were horrified on learning of the burning of a Chicago theater in which nearly six hundred people lost their lives, yet more than five times this number or over 3,000 people died from pneumonia in Chicago during the same year, with scarcely a passing notice. Every one of these cases of pneumonia resulted from a cold and could have been prevented by the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. A great many who had every reason to fear pneumonia have ward off it by the prompt use of this remedy. The following is an instance of this sort: "Too much cannot be said in favor of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and especially for colds and influenza. I know that it cured my daughter, Laura, of a severe cold, and I believe saved her life when she was threatened with pneumonia." W. D. Wilcox, Logan, New York. Sold by Gibbons & Timberman and W. F. Creighton & Co.
